

"Book Talk"

Thinking and talking about reading can improve a child's comprehension of the material he or she is reading. The following questions will help you talk with your child about the independent reading he or she is doing.

- What kind of a person is the main character? Give examples of the things they do or say.
- How are you alike or different from the main character?
- What problems do the characters face?
- How do the characters solve their problems?
- What would you change about the book?
- Give a summary of what you have read so far.
- What do you predict will happen next?
- Were there any parts you didn't understand? How did you figure that part out? What can you do to figure out what you don't know?
- What is your favorite part so far?
- If you were to write a sequel for the book, what would it be about?
- Tell about the setting. How do you know where the story takes place? How do you know when (past, present, or future) the story takes place?
- Also, don't forget the "5W's & How"...
 1. Who
 2. What
 3. Where
 4. When
 5. Why
 6. How
